Who We Are

The KAIGAN Foundation, is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit foundation that was founded in 2016 in Drums, Pa after our son Kellen Jumper Warner was diagnosed with a rare and incurable kidney disease called “IGA Nephropathy with Crescents”. The KAIGAN Foundation is dedicated to providing awareness, research and support for juvenile kidney patients.

Mission

The KAIGAN Foundation’s mission is to alleviate costs for juvenile dialysis and kidney patients, fund costs for support groups, KAIGAN Houses, KAIGAN Camps, and help fund research clinics to promote an early detection and to find a cure. The KAIGAN Foundation is determined to make a difference so that another young child does not have to endure the fear, pain, and medical treatments that will forever change his/her life.

Programs

The KAIGAN Foundation is working with Columbia University on their studies called The GigaKids and CureGN study. For more information on these studies please see attached. We are determined to grow worldwide to connect with other research clinics to help fund their studies and to partner with hospitals around the world to create and sustain support groups for juvenile dialysis and kidney patients.

About KAIGAN

As a mother there are so many joys of parenthood – learning you are expecting, carrying a child for nine months, childbirth, and then the wonderful joys of learning to care and raise a child. Kellen Jumper Warner was our first of three children, born in Southern California in 2003 happy and healthy. He enjoyed your normal baby, then toddler activities enjoying superhero's, playing ball, sports, etc. Kellen Jumper has always been a natural athlete, starting with soccer, then baseball, then basketball, then football, and even some ice hockey. In the summer of 2014 while playing All-Star baseball, for the first time in his life he was tired. He wasn't just tired, he was exhausted and it wasn't your regular "he needs a good night of sleep" parenting approach. There was something wrong, and then there were a couple of other signs that warranted medical intervention. After multiple doctors, hospitals, pokes, prods, and biopsies, Kellen Jumper Warner was ultimately diagnosed with IGA Nephropathy Crescentic. The news was devastating. Kellen, only 11 years old at the time, looked to his mom and dad for direction and understanding. He would see his mom and dad with tears in their eyes, and he knew something was not right and that there was something serious going on. It was then and there that we as a family decided that Kellen, and his family, would learn and understand as much as they could about this disease. We, as a family, decided we were not going to put our heads in our hands and cry ourselves to sleep or pretend this wasn't happening to us or our son, but rally together for Kellen and any other child faced with the same situation. It was then clear to us all what we needed to do, and that is when the KAIGAN Foundation was conceived.

The KAIGAN Foundation was founded in 2016 after our son Kellen Jumper Warner was diagnosed with a rare and incurable kidney disease called "IGA Nephropathy Crescentic." The KAIGAN Foundation is a nonprofit foundation based in Drums, PA to provide awareness, research, and support for juvenile kidney patients.

The KAIGAN Foundation's mission is to alleviate costs for juvenile dialysis and kidney patients, fund costs for support groups, The KAIGAN House, KAIGAN Camp, and help fund research clinics to promote an early detection and to find a cure. The KAIGAN Foundation is determined to make a difference so that another young child does not have to endure the fear, pain, and medical treatments that will forever change their lives. Please help and support The KAIGAN Foundation to make a difference and give other families hope that are dealing with incurable kidney diseases.

Support Group Opportunities

- Facilitate a connection between current and former juvenile kidney patients and their the families to support one another, by sharing stories, life experiences, and hope.
- Have current and former juvenile kidney patients attend and be part of The KAIGAN Foundation events worldwide.
- Meet with current and former kidney patients either monthly and/or annually. Have professionals meet with the kidney patients and their families to answer questions and provide guidance on specific challenges.
- Partner with hospitals worldwide to help support The KAIGAN Foundation to help spread kidney disease awareness.
- Long term goal for The KAIGAN Foundation is to build “KAIGAN Houses” and “KAIGAN Camps” worldwide.

KAIGAN Houses-will provide current patients on dialysis’s or a patient who received a kidney transplant a place to stay. KAIGAN Houses will also provide qualified tutors to help with the patient’s school work.

KAIGAN Camps-will provide current and previous kidney patients throughout the year an escape from their reality of their disease and enjoy the outdoors to include but not limited to – hiking, biking, swimming, fishing, go cart racing, and nightly campfires, etc. Also, the camp will offer programs on educating campers on healthy diet, exercise, and long term on how to live with kidney disease, diabetes, or any other element that associates with kidney disease. KAIGAN Camps will provide qualified medical professions, counselors, and chefs.

Testimonials

“The KAIGAN Foundation is a labor of love from a family filled with happiness and zest for life”!
-Sue Wolk

“Kellen Warner is my best friend in the whole world. We first met in second grade in Mrs. Joesph’s class at Drums Elementary/Middle School. We became great friends and share many of the same interests. We played basketball, baseball, football, hockey, golf, ping pong, video games, pool and tennis all the time together. He taught me that practice makes perfect. We’ve spent many great times and vacations together. We’ve helped each other through good times and bad. Kellen is like a brother to me and we will have each other’s back’s for many, many years to come. I will help Kellen through any ordeal that he has to face with this disease so he keeps on smiling!! Love ya Bro”!

-Peter Walko

“The KAIGAN foundation will bring awareness to the IGA Kidney Disease which has very little public awareness at this time. Kellen is an amazing kid! He and his family do not let this disease bring them down, instead they are determined to help others through this foundation!
